THE OPTION BILL IS LAW

The County Unit Passes the House
By a Vote of 55 to 45 at 10:45
This Morning—There Was Little Struggle.

FRIENDS OF MEASURE JUBILENT

Local option with the county as the unit is a law. The bill passed the house this morning by the decisive vote of 55 to 45. It is understood that three Democrats voted for the bill and two Republicans voted against it. This information is not final. There was little difficulty in passing the bill. For several days there has been little opposition. The Indianapolis Star and some Republican leaders told stories of lobby activity, but in fact there was little doing in opposition to the bill.

The news was received here shortly before noon, and created some little excitement. The college bell was rung and the people upon the streets gathered in groups to talk the situation over. The partisan character of the measure was still in evidence, as was shown by the fact that few asked what the result would be on temperance, but always what the result would be on the political situation.
So far as the Democrats of the locality are concerned the matter is now history. The temperance Democrats were in favor of their own methods of solving the question. They were doubtful of the power of the Republican measure to bring the result promised. Now that the rival method has won they cease their opposition, and will join heartily in attempting to secure results. No one wishes to repeal it. All temperance men hope it will succeed as the Republicans promised. They will not work against it. They will work for it. Should the Democrats remember the insults heaped upon them by Republican speakers from Watson down, and refuse to aid, the law has no chance. But we are sure they will forget. As we say the fight is now history. So far as the Democrats are concerned the law will go its way and with their help.

POLICE COURT NOTES

The police court was a lonesome place this morning, so far as those guilty of violating the law are concerned. No one was before the mayor, and his honor had an easy morning. One man, a tramp, was arrested last night, but was released this morning with the understanding that he shake the dust of the city from his feet, which he did with joy and expedition.

Capt. Starr.

Capt. W. F. Starr leaves early in the week to take up his concert work and will be gone for the most of the year. Sunday will be the last time he will be heard in the city for a good while. He has kindly consented to sing two numbers at both morning and evening services of the College Avenue Church. Capt. Starr's great gospel solos are full of inspiration. All are invited to hear him tomorrow.

HASKELL HAS RESIGNED VARSITY IS IN GOOD SHAPE

DuPont of the Republican Campaign Committee Also Resigns and Foraker Clamors for Taft's Resignation.

GREAT STIR IN POLITICAL CAMP

Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma, National Treasurer of the Democratic Campaign Committee, has resigned his position. The resignation is due to the charges preferred against him by Hearst and President Roosevelt. He does not, for a moment, admit that the charges are true, but resigns that no taint of corruption may rest upon the Democratic party.

Senator DuPont, chairman of the Republican Speaker's Bureau has also resigned from the Republican committee. DuPont is connected with the Powder Trust now being prosecuted by the government. He was sent to the senate by his trust friends to aid "trust" affairs. The campaign has become so warm that he now resigns.

Another startling incident of the day is the accusation by Senator Foraker, of Ohio, that Taft smells of oil and sugar. Foraker charges that Taft has been very close to the Standard Oil and to the Glass Trusts and other illegal combinations. He suggests that in the light of the action of Haskell and DuPont and himself when accused Taft should get off the ticket in order not to embarrass the Republican party.

"PEOPLE WILL SETTLE IT"

View of Present Temperance Situation Voiced by Rev. Rudy of the Christian Church.

Tomorrow Rev. Rudy of the Christian Church, in a prelude to the regular sermon will say in part:

Friends:
This day in which we live is a great day because of the swift ideals. If there ever has been any doubt that God answers prayer that doubt is now dispelled. I do not care through whom the prayers are answered. I told our people at prayer meeting about the student who prayed earnestly for God to give him assistance during his college course.
An infidel in an adjoining room hearing these petitions got some amusement for himself out of the practice of throwing a loaf down the chimney daily. Thankfully the praying student accepted the help of Providence. But at the close of the year the infidel student came into the room of the praying christian to disillusion him. After the infidel had told how he and not the Lord had furnished the bread, the pious young philosopher replied calmly, very good, very good. I have just as great, if not greater reason to be thankful, for while the Lord sent it, the devil fetched it.

It matters not to me by what party or through what agency we take forward steps in this wonderful march to the grave of the saloon. The main thing is are we making progress?
The answer is Yes. Now don't any of you get to thinking that all the temperance sentiment is in one party in this country. In the southern states that have gone or declared for state-wide prohibition, viz.: Texas, Alabama, Oklahoma, Georgia, and North Carolina, you know which is the dominant party. In Oregon the opposite party is dominant. In the State of Iowa knows what party is dominant there. What's the record?
Gov. Larrabee in his retiring message in 1890 said:

"The jails of many counties are now empty a good portion of the year, and the number of convicts in our penitentiaries have been reduced from 750 in March, 1886, to 604 in July, 1889. It is the testimony of the judges of our courts that criminal expenses have diminished in like proportion. We have fewer paupers and tramps in our state in proportion to its population than ever before.
The poorer classes have better fare, better clothing, better schools and better houses. It is safe to say that not one-tenth and probably not one-twentieth as much liquor is consumed in the state as was five years ago.
The standard for temperance has been gradually raised even in those cities where the law has not been enforced."

The low down, mean, underhanded, criminal methods of the saloon power during these years can be followed by a trail of blood. In Sioux City, Rev. George C. Haddock, a noble, true-hearted defender of Iowa's honor, was waylaid one night and murdered in cold blood. On the other side of the state the home of one of the workers for temperance, Mr.

Methodists Expect to Wallop Presbyterians in Today's Game—Coach Brown Puts Squad Through Snappy Signal Practice.

PROBABLE LINE-UP ANNOUNCED

With the snappiest signal practice seen on the field this season Coach Brown yesterday sent his warriors through the final practice before the opening gridiron contest of the season, this afternoon when the Franklin College football aggregation clashes with DePauw. The whole team is in the best of condition and worked together like veterans in yesterday's workout. Up to the last minute of practice the coach has been making his men dig continually until the squad is working at mid-season speed. The hard work, during the early practice has shown up the playing qualities of every man on the squad so that the coach knows what to count on from each man in the lineup. Overman was worked out at quarter again yesterday and will no doubt see some of today's work at quarter sharing honors with Grady. Captain Jackson will play left end and have a hand at carrying the oval. When asked what he expected from his team the captain said: "Well, we've whipped Franklin for the last two years and we're going to do it again. We'll just have to—that's all."

Coach Brown expects to give the squad a trial in today's game as there are several men on the squad who have attracted considerable attention in the season's practice. At end positions Jackson, Whistler, Raum and Hodler will be tried out. Harmon and Dewey with Kanup and Stansell will hold down the tackle jobs and LeVan will probably be worked out with Lawrence at centre. Schlaterman, Alford and Pyke will probably work in the backfield in addition to those in the lineup below.

Today's game will start with the following line-up:

Jackson left end
Harmon left tackle
Lawrence Center
Ward right guard
Dewey right tackle
Whistler right end
Grady, Overman quarter
Greenstreet right half
Dennison full back
Vesey, Schladerman left half Officials: Siler, and Davis, Indianapolis, referee and umpire. Jewett, DePauw, head linesman.

TYPHOID IN THE DUST

Brazil Physicians Hold That Low Wells Are Not Responsible For Disease.

MICROBES RIDE IN THE DIRT

It seems that some physicians differ with others as to the effect on the health of the users of well water.

In conversation with Dr. Wightman this morning he said:
"Surface dryness during the latter summer months is one of the greatest means for preventing typhoid fever and general bowel diseases.
So long as wells are dependent for their water supply on underground currents their water remains pure.
A drenching rain during the hot summer months, when there is an abundant surface decay and contamination, would wash a good deal of this surface filth into our wells and thus contaminate the water.

"This condition of dryness for the past months explains the extremely healthy situation of the entire country. There are less cases of typhoid fever this season than any previous year.

"The notion that exists among the people that the water from low and partially exhausted wells is unhealthy is absolutely erroneous. Typhoid fever, however, is not so much communicated through the water supply as it is by flies. These insects gather up the typhoid fever germs from the patients and their excrement and thence carry the germ to milk or other food articles.

A single typhoid fever germ deposited in milk or other suitable food will, in the course of 24 hours, provide over 5,000,000 typhoid germs, and these, when taken into the human stomach, cannot but help to induce typhoid fever.

"While I was resident physician at the Cook County Hospital, Chicago, I bacteriologically analyzed 2,000 flies and in 108 of these insects I discovered the typhoid fever germ. The size of this germ is very small, measuring about 1-15,000 of an inch in length, and 1-50,000 of an inch in thickness. Boiling water destroys these germs within three minutes.—

TURNER DISCUSSES WAR

Colored Orator From St. Louis Gives Views on Things Supposedly Political at Court House Last Night.

CROWD ON OUTSIDE LARGEST

J. Milton Turner, colored, supposedly an orator from St. Louis, addressed a political meeting at the assembly room of the court house last night. A considerable number of colored voters and several white Republicans remained through the meeting. A still larger number came early but left before the close of the speech. A large number of colored men did not go to the assembly room at all, but stood around outside and told of what they would do this fall.

The speaker was radically partisan, disconnected, uninteresting and unconvincing. Although he cost the Republican party considerable cash, spent in an attempt to win back the colored vote alienated by Taft and Roosevelt, he seemed to have little effect. Many colored voters were loud in their disapproval this morning. It was not an attempt that would convince anyone not already radically partisan.

Both made excellent addresses that were enthusiastically received.

DROUTH STOPS THE TRAINS

Railroads in Ohio and Indiana Have Difficulties in Continuing Operations Because of Shortage of Water.

THE SHOPS ALSO CLOSE DOWN

Because of the continued drouth railroads in the Central and Eastern States are experiencing much difficulty on account of lack of water to keep the plants and systems in operation. The situation has become so critical that transportation and operating officials are holding meetings on almost all lines to arrange some plan whereby the shops and locomotives can be kept in operation. The railways in Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania seem to be suffering most from this unlooked for trouble.

The wells at the different pumping stations which supply water to locomotives have in many instances gone dry, as well as those at the repair shops which are not located on streams. In some instances in the Pittsburg district it has been necessary to close some of the repair shops and the situation is so serious that officials say unless some relief comes soon more plans will have to be closed.
The lines in the three states unless they soon get some way of supplying water to the engines and trains will have to stop operating, it is said.

The Ohio Central has found it necessary to close some of its shops.

The Star & Democrat has been authorized by State Committee to receive contributions for the campaign. All money received will be forwarded to the Democratic State Committee, to be used in securing and distributing political literature, paying the expenses of speakers and paying organization. Contributions of $1.00 and upward may be left at this office. We urge prompt and liberal action. The names of contributors, and the amount given will be forwarded to the State Committee, which will mail a receipt to each person signed by the chairman.

Now we shall see whether the Republicans and President Roosevelt who hailed with whoop the Hearst accusations of Haskell will whoop equally loud over the same man's accusation of Hughes. Hearst declares: You Independence party men of New York have every reason for patriotic effort in this campaign. One of the old parties has nominated Mr. Hughes, who, throughout his term, has served the great privileged interests with the consummate skill of a trained corporation lawyer. He has created public-service commissions, which have spent by the millions the money of the people, and whose only service has been to protect corrupt corporations in the pillage of the people. Mr. Hughes vetoed the 2-cent railroad fare bill and the 5-cent Coney Island fare bill. He has protected on every side the corporations which own him and has overlooked on every side the people who elected him. His opposition to race-track gambling is creditable and would amply justify his election as Town Marshal, but his abject subservience to privileged interests is not creditable and does not justify his re-election as Governor.

It would appear from the charges made by Foraker of Taft's close relation to the O. O. Glass and other trusts, that Taft himself, according to the argument used by Roosevelt, must be the next man to get off the ticket. It seems that Taft and Roosevelt forgot that Foraker was a fighter when they stirred him up and kicked him out.

A Republican newspaper declares that Haskell should resign as he is a load on the Democratic National Committee. In the same paper we note the fulsome praise of Cannon. Is Cannon, then, less a load on the Republican committee. Or is private greed and corruption more criminal than public maleficence in office? And how, too, about Aldrich and DuPont and Penrose and so on down the list?

DEMOCRATIC NEWS

Maxwell in Hendricks.

The weather was warm, Saturday, disagreeably so, but that did not keep the much advertised "Opening of the Campaign" by the Republicans of Hendricks county from being a "frost" and one, too, of such proportions as to make the partisans of that party sit up and take notice and wonder "Why?"

The speakers advertised were Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, Howard Maxwell, the Republican candidate for congress in this district and Rev. John Wesley Hill of New York City. It is said the latter gentlemen was to make a special plea for county local option, but between the time of his assignment and the speaking, the local managers of the G. O. P. decided that the condition was such in Danville that the least said is soonest mended, and it was conveniently arranged for the ministerial gentlemen to "miss his connections" and be unable to be present.

The first speaker was candidate Maxwell, who was introduced by O. E. Golley (whom he so handsomely trimmed in the Republican congressional convention with the aid of the Terre Haute breweries and saloon-keepers.) Otis took his medicine like a little man, but a number of his followers in this county have Maxwell marked for the sacrifice, and a view of the latter gentleman only strengthened their determination. Maxwell's speech had the virtue of being short, and after scattering a few bouquets among the Hendricks county Republicans he talked of local option and what a dangerous man Bryan was and the country. The young man was a distinct disappointment to his party friends; they had looked for an improvement on Congressman Holliday in the point of ability and failed to find it.

Senator Curtis' speech, too, was an attack on Bryan almost solely, little or no discussion whatever being given to the issues that divide the two parties. It is said the Republican orators have been instructed not to talk the issues but to declaim on "The Dangerous Bryan," and judging from the trend of both the speeches at this meeting such instructions have been sent out from the Republican national headquarters.

Mr. Curtis is a pleasing speaker, and paid tribute to Fairbanks and Beveridge, Hemenway and Watson—but not one word had he to say for one—J. Frank Hanly, Republican governor of the State of Indiana.

The Republicans have opened their campaign in Old Hendricks and are downcast over the result.

Meantime Democrats are wearing the smile that won't come off.

Their Way in New York.

A dramatic incident occurring in the New York Democratic state convention is described in the Associated Press report as follows: "When in the midst of his set speech Mr. Bryan was interrupted by Former Assemblyman John Palace, Jr., of Rochester, who stated that if he would consent to suspend his speech for five minutes, the Democrats of Monroe County would show him more substantial support than mere applause and cheering. Ushers rushed about the hall handing out black applications for membership in the 'Central Bryan and Kern Club,' containing a pledge to vote and work for the success of the national ticket. There also were spaces to mark the last ticket voted by the signer. When the slips had all been collected Mr. Palace announced that more than 3,000 applications and pledges had been made. 'I think that is the largest club that I ever knew organized in so short a time,' said Mr. Bryan, 'and if you can work as long as you can fast there'll be an immense amount of work done.'—Commoner.

HOW TO GET STRONG

P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. Congress street, Chicago tells of a way to become strong. He says: "My mother, who is old and was very feeble is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, that I feel it's my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints. "UNCLE JOE" AND THE FREE AND INDEPENDENT CONGRESS

CONCERNING "UNCLE JOE"

Last week one of the ablest and best liked Republican members of congress, J. Adam Bede, of the Eighth Minnesota district, was defeated for re-nomination by members of his own party because he declared himself unflinchingly in favor of the re-election as speaker of Joe Cannon. This seems to be a fair indication of Republican sentiment concerning the chair of the lower house of congress. Collier's Weekly, which so far as it has any policy, is certainly friendly to the Republican party, denounces Cannon unreservedly, and last week printed a communication in which it was said that if Taft and Sherman were elected the long arm of the speaker would reach from the house and of the capitol to the senate and make the puppet Sherman do the bidding of the autocrat in the speaker's chair.

President Roosevelt, in 1891, said of Cannon: "We cannot escape from the fact that it was no credit to the Republican party of the house that Mr. Cannon of Illinois should be one of its leaders." Cannon then was temporarily out of office, the only time he has been out of office in thirty-five years. Among all the prominent Republicans there is none upon whom the country looks with so much hesitancy and doubt. His face is always set against any measure for the good of the people, his power is invariably exerted for those measures that are demanded by the great interests. Whether as a result of this attitude or not, the fact remains that after thirty-five years of officeholding, with only a moderate salary most of the time, "Uncle Joe" has grown rich, his wealth increasing as his power increased. He is emphatically an issue in this campaign—not merely an issue between the Democratic and Republican parties, but between the decent and patriotic element and the corrupt element which he has so long dominated.

Mr. John White, of 38 Highland Ave., Houlton, Maine, says: "Have been troubled with a cough every winter and spring. Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cough continued until I bought a 50c bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery; before that was half gone, the cough was all gone. This winter the same happy result has followed; a few doses once more banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." New Orleans Editor Receives $7,000 for the Democratic Fund.

ROBERT EWING TELLS ABOUT IT

Encouraging Reports Come from Many States

Oregon for Bryan—Wisconsin in Line—Minnesota Enthusiasm—Even Ohio Will Defeat Taft, Says Ed. Mahon.

Chicago, Ill., Sept.—If publishers of Democratic papers throughout the country are as successful as Mr. Robert Ewing of the New Orleans States in raising funds for the Democratic national campaign, Chairman Moses C. Wetmore of the finance committee will not want for money to meet legitimate campaign expenses. Mr. Ewing, who has been here attending the meeting of the Democratic national committee, has collected a popular subscription fund of approximately $7,000. This has been accomplished within the past three or four weeks. Mr. Ewing predicts that the States' fund will grow and that it will finally be as much as $20,000.

"Our people are taking a lively interest in this work of raising a popular fund for the election of Bryan and Kern," said Mr. Ewing today. "They realize fully the importance of getting a sufficiently large fund to run the campaign, and they know that this money must come from the people. The trusts and the special interests will save the Republican party the necessity of going out and raising money by small subscriptions. That is the reason this unprecedented collection of a campaign fund for the election of presidential candidates has been comparatively easy. Every parish in the state is swarming the fund. Already Democrats are regarding the contribution of funds for the election of Bryan and Kern as a patriotic duty. Fully five hundred registrars and judges of election in Louisiana, who earn $300 a day for their services one day in each campaign year, have contributed their earnings to the Democratic national campaign fund. That shows the extent of the personal sacrifices being made by Democrats in this presidential contest."

The Democratic national committee is not overlooking opportunities in Pacific coast states and a very vigorous campaign is to be conducted in those western states. The reports Chairman Mack has received from California, Oregon and Washington are convincing that Democrats have a fine chance to carry all of those states. The national committee will work in harmony with the state committees.

Speaking of political conditions in the west, National Committeeman Miller, of Oregon, said today: "Bryan and Kern will carry Oregon this year, though I notice in the morning papers that United States Senator Jonathan Bourne says that Democrats haven't a chance in the west. The best answer I can make to this statement is to cite Senator Bourne as an authority against himself. Prior to the Republican national convention, the senator was proclaiming from one end of the country to the other that the nomination of Judge Taft would result in his defeat in the nation and a loss of Oregon to the Republican party. Mr. Bourne was for the re-nomination of President Roosevelt, but I think at the time he correctly diagnosed the situation in Oregon, when he declared that Taft could not carry the state against Bryan."

"Conditions are highly favorable to the Democracy in Pacific coast states," continued Mr. Miller, "and I believe Mr. Bryan will get relatively a larger per cent of the Republican vote in those states than in any others of like population in the country. The Denver platform is the best ever put forward by a party, and it appeals with particular force to Pacific coast people."

Representative James W. Murphy, of the Third Wisconsin Congressional district, was a caller at Democratic headquarters today. He thinks Democrats have a fine chance to carry Wisconsin this year. He told Chairman Mack as much and went over with him the political situation in the state. "There is a wonderful change in public opinion towards Mr. Bryan this year," said Congressman Murphy. "This is particularly noticeable in cities where Bryan and Kern clubs are being organized. In Milwaukee one night last week, a Democratic club was started with an enrollment of 280 members. This was in a precinct where the total Democratic vote four years ago was only 30. This shows the drift towards Democracy in Wisconsin, and I hear like reports from all the states of the west."

Chairman Moses C. Wetmore of the finance committee stated today that 1,500 papers had joined in the movement to raise a popular subscription fund with which to run the Democratic campaign. He says, in his opinion, every Democratic paper in the United States will join in this movement.

Senator Thos. P. Brady, of New York, famous as an orator in the Tammany organization, was another caller at Democratic headquarters where he spent some time with Chairman Mack. Senator Brady has been on a two months' trip through the west. He thinks Mr. Bryan will be elected president. He says Mr. Bryan has great strength among the western people who admire and believe in him. In every place that I visited, said Senator Grady, I heard Republicans say they would vote for Bryan in preference to Taft. Of course, New York is going Democratic this year, and conditions favor a Democratic victory."

John A. Hartigan, Insurance Commissioner of Minnesota, who called at Democratic headquarters, is very enthusiastic over Democratic prospects in that state. "Johnson will be elected governor," he said, "and we will make a great fight all along the line for the Democratic ticket. There is no factionalism in our party. There are no Johnson men and there are no Bryan men. All Democrats are Bryan and Johnson Democrats and are working with enthusiasm and vigor for the state and national tickets. We are going to win this year."

"Many people express surprise when the statement is made that Taft will fail to carry his own state this year, but it is my confident opinion that Ohio will give its electoral vote to Bryan and Kern." This statement came from Ed. Mahon, a prominent business man in Columbus, Ohio, who called at Democratic headquarters to arrange for the distribution of literature in the Ohio contest. "We want all the literature we can get," said Mr. Mahon, "for the people are in a very receptive mood this year. It is surprising to Democrats to find so many Republicans in Mr. Taft's own state who are for Bryan and Kern. I never knew the Democratic party to be in as good shape as it is in Ohio today. We are not only going to elect a Democratic governor, but we are going to beat Mr. Taft right in his own ballgame."

GARDNER BROS

What's In a Name?

By Martha Cobb Sanford.

Copyrighted, 1906, by Associated Literary Press.

Just ahead of her Barbara King caught sight of Bertram Mathews. Thanking her lucky stars that he had not caught sight of her first, she darted through the wide open doors of the library building and rested for a few minutes against one of the large marble columns in the lobby.

After she had given Mathews plenty of time to pass she ventured to the door and reconnoitered cautiously. Heavens! He had turned around and was coming straight toward the library! Barbara bounded up the stairs like an antelope and disappeared.

With no apparent signs of haste or purpose Bertram Mathews followed her lead. At the top of the broad flight of stairs, however, he came to a standstill and leisurely scanned the long, empty corridor.

As there was nothing to indicate which way the golden haired vision had fled, he started on a lazy stroll through the maze of special reading rooms, sure of finding her somewhere.

It was clever of him, he mused; to have crossed Barbara's trail without her knowing it. He smiled at the thought of her blushing surprise when he should unexpectedly stumble upon her. What would she have to say to him?

He was aware that he was deliberately forcing Barbara's answer after yielding to her entreaty for an interregnum of courtship which would terminate only by strictly accidental meeting. But it had been two whole weeks since he last proposed to Barbara, and human restraint has its limitations.

Barbara didn't blush, however, nor was she the least surprised when Bertram at last discovered her in the secluded nook reserved for legal reference. So absorbed was she in reading a popular fiction magazine that his presence failed to establish that telepathic communication proverbially supposed to exist between lovers.

Bertram, his eyes dancing mischievously, gazed daringly near her and then tapped out the catalogue files. Lifting down the drawer labeled "Ba," he ran his fingers rapidly over the cards until he found two titles that evidently suited him.

With punctilious deliberation he copied these on a little printed slip and after filling in the blank spaces prepared for the reader's name and sent number handed it in at the delivery desk and waited developments.

Before long a small, freckle faced page in brass buttoned uniform tripped by him toward the legal reference room, one small book under his arm. Bertram followed at safe distance.

"One of 'em's out, miss," announced the page, indicating with a grimy finger a canceled title on the slip of paper which he handed Barbara.

"Why Men Remain Bachelors," read Barbara aloud solemnly, and beneath it, "Bachelor's Guide to Matrimony." "But I didn't order either of them," she informed the page indifferently. "There's some mistake."

"Ain't that your name and number, miss?" he had the impertinence to ask her.

Barbara examined the slip more closely. "B. Mathews," it read, "seat 15, legal reference room." She glanced about suspiciously. There was only one other occupant, and that was not "B. Mathews."

"Well, is it or ain't it?" demanded the page, his tone suggestive of a dangerously overwrought forbearance.

"Is what?" asked Barbara vaguely. "Well, by thunder!" ejaculated the diminutive government official. "Don'tcher know yer own name?"

"Of course I do," Barbara answered him with a childlike naïveté, "but I shan't tell you, you little imp, so run away."

"Then yer can't have the book," brass buttons retorted as he marched off with the "Bachelor's Guide to Matrimony."

Barbara watched him out of sight and then straightway forgot all about him in the thrilling occupation of scribbling in various styles of chirography, "Barbara Mathews, Mrs. Bertram Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Mathews," etc., on the page margins of her magazine.

"What's in a name?" commented a masculine voice suddenly over her shoulder.

Barbara, blushing pink to the tips of her ears, closed the magazine with a bang, tucked it under her arm and started to beat an indignant retreat.

Bertram, however, observing that there were only empty chairs for witnesses, playfully barred her exit. Around the table he chased her in a scandalously undignified scramble. If walls have eyes as well as ears, surely the forbidding legal tomes on the surrounding "bleachers" had never before been spectators to anything so indecorous.

Covered at length, beyond hope of escape, in a decoy ending in a dormer window on one side and flanked by projecting bookshelves on the other two, Barbara faced her pursuer with wildly thumping heart.

"You aren't playing fair," she accused him breathlessly. "You've broken your promise, Bertram Mathews. This isn't accidental meeting at all. It's an ambush. You followed me here. You can't deny it, because I saw you out in front of the library. That's—that's why I came in here." It was with difficulty that Bertram refrained from breaking into a laugh.

But Barbara was too much in earnest to detect it.

"You deliberately ran away from me, Barbara. Was that playing fair?" questioned Bertram.

"But I couldn't tell you—I mean we couldn't talk it over out there on the street. It would have been so unromantic and—and such a stupid anticlimax."

Whatever Bertram had on the tip of his tongue to reply was momentarily checked by the passing in and out of an unsympathetic group of curious sightseers.

To bridge over the interruption Barbara pretended to be absorbed in watching the glow of the sunset.

"It is beautiful, isn't it?" she asked dreamily as soon as they were alone again.

"Glorious!" answered Bertram fervently, his gaze never leaving the sun decked waves of her hair.

"But you can't see it, silly. Turn around."

As he didn't turn, Barbara faced about to learn the reason and, catching his look of undisguised adoration, lowered her eyes before it, her self-possession utterly vanquished.

"Oh, sweet, tantalizing Barbara King," he pleaded, "am I never to know if you really love me? Won't you give me some little bit of hope to warm the cockles of my heart?"

For answer Barbara suddenly surrendered into his keeping the telltale magazine, which up to this time she had guarded jealously from him.

"Is that enough?" she asked him mockingly.

Whereupon in that apparently deserted little reading room "no conversation above a whisper" broke the stillness for some time on. At length a door slammed to, and the ominous click of a key followed.

"Oh, we're locked in!" gasped Barbara, rushing to the door and rattling the knob excitedly. "Why, whoever would have guessed it was near closing time?"

"Not I," admitted Bertram, with shameless candor. "Here, let me have a try at that knob."

"Hold on!" yelled an exasperated voice on the other side. "I'll let you out if yer'll give me a chance. Who is tharber is it, anyhow?"

"Barbara Mathews," called Barbara promptly through the keyhole. "I mean," she corrected hastily, while Bertram laughed at her mercilessly, "it's Barbara King."

When the door finally swung open it revealed a very disgusted young person composed chiefly of freckles and big brass buttons.

"Well, I'll be blowed," he exclaimed in astonishment, "if it ain't the same one, and she don't know her own name yet. Ain't that the limit?"

A Lawyer's Somersault.

Speaking of somersaults, the anecdote which Lord Eldon related of the eminent English lawyer John Dunning, afterward Lord Ashburton, will bear repeating. "I had," says Lord Eldon, "very early after I was called to the bar a brief as junior to Mr. Dunning. He began the argument and appeared to me to be reasoning very powerfully against our client. Waiting till I was quite convinced that he had mistaken for what party he was retained, I then touched his arm, and upon his turning his head toward me I whispered to him that he must have misunderstood by whom he was employed, as he was reasoning against our client."

"He gave me a very rough and rude reprimand for not having sooner set him right and then proceeded to state that what he had addressed to the court was all that could be stated against his client and that he had put the case as unfavorably as it was possible in order that the court might see how very satisfactorily the case against him could be answered and accordingly very powerfully answered what he had before stated."

Badly Confused.

Lord Bramwell, says the biographer of that jurist, used to tell a story illustrating the complete paralysis which may affect the human mind at trying moments.

One day when he was on board a Rhine steamer he noticed a lady, evidently in great distress, trying by signs to explain to the officials some matter of importance. Fancying that she was a countrywoman of his own, he asked:

"Do you speak English?"

The poor lady had really lost her head, and she could only stammer out, "Un pen"—that is, a little.

Then Lord Bramwell continued the conversation in French, but it became evident that the lady understood scarcely a word. German and Italian gave equally bad results. Finally she muttered audibly to herself:

"How I wish I were safe at home!"

"But surely you do speak English!" exclaimed the baron.

"I can't speak anything else," she sobbed. "That's what makes me so helpless among these foreigners."

Kean's Funny Slip.

Charles Kean was a very nervous man, easily upset by any mistake, and one night when playing Hamlet he came to the passage:

Who calls me villain, breaks my pate across.

Picks off my beard and blows it in my face,

Tweaks me by the nose?

Getting rather flustered for some reason or other, he rendered it thus:

Who calls me villain, breaks my pate across.

Picks off my beard, tweaks me by the nose

And blows it in my face?

The contretemps completely paralyzed Kean, who amid shouts of laughter from the audience signaled for the curtain to be lowered at once.—Cleveland Leader.

DEPAUW NEWS

'WOMEN FINE ORATORS' DEBATE AND ORATORY NEXT

PROFESSOR GOUGH SAYS THAT THE FAIR SEX CAN TAKE FIRST OVER MEN

STATEMENT CAUSES SURPRISE

Prof. H. B. Gough head of the Department of Public Speaking and Debating, made a statement in one of his classes recently concerning women and oratory which has excited much interest among students. "The tendency in DePauw," the professor said "to look askance at women in oratory and debating is wrong." He did not stop here but shocked his large class of men by asserting that young women can whip you off your feet at any time in oratory and debating. Women are one hundred and fifty years ahead of men in public speaking. All this created a good deal of wonderment in the freshman class. Prof. Gough continued his talk by speaking of the wonderful powers of Frances Willard as an orator.

The professor made an interesting remark in connection with the statement in regard to dress as an asset in women's success. He said the graceful folds of a dress always augment a woman's powers.

PROFESSOR GOUGH URGES STUDENTS TO GET TO WORK ON SPEECHES AT ONCE.

COUNCIL WILL MEET TO-DAY

The season for the debate and oratorical contests is at hand. Students who are expecting to take part in these various contests should join the oratorical association and pay the required fee to the debate council without delay. Students have been negligent in regard to these details heretofore but the council announces that no more will be allowed to compete this year if the matter is not settled at once.

During the coming year there will be three oratorical contests held, and the college debate team will be chosen to meet the representatives of Albion College sometime during the spring term. All of these men will be chosen either this term or the early part of next term, and in the contests only merit counts.

The Freshmen stand an equal chance with Juniors and Seniors to win out in these contests, and anyone, whatever his rank, who is at all interested in this line of work, should arrange to enter one or two of these contests.

STUDENTS PAY TRIBUTE

Memorial Chapel Service Was Held Yesterday Morning.

Fitting tribute was paid to the deceased alumnus, Hon. Mark L. DeMotte at chapel yesterday morning. Dr. Gobin made a few appropriate remarks and then the entire student body stood a few moments in silent prayer for the departed.

The life of Mark L. DeMotte was one which deserved such homage after it had ended. He was noted as a politician, serving the tenth district in the national congress; as an educator he was prominent, having founded the law school of Valparaiso University; he was well known as an author but above all he was a sincere Christian man.

His death occurred Sept. 22 at his home in Valparaiso and the funeral occurred yesterday morning.

CHANCE TO SEE CLASS "SCRAP"

Unless two hundred DePauw students will sign written agreements to accompany the team to Bloomington next Saturday, a special train cannot be secured. The House of Quality

Our fine line of suitings is now in and we wish to say that we are showing the prettiest line of woollens that was ever shown in the city.

Such new things as Pall Mall stripes, Zebra stripes, London smoke, Glen Urquhart weaves and the beautiful heather shades so popular in men's wear this fall.

Color combinations that some time ago were never dreamt of as being possible in men's fabrics are now being shown in all the up-to-date Custom Tailoring shops of the country. We have them all and would be pleased to have you step in and take a look. We never tire of showing goods, whether you buy or not.

Our garments are all hand made, the trimmings are all of the very best, and the hair cloth is genuine, and our prices are no more than you pay for the high priced ready-made clothes, and you can have your suit made the way you want it. You don't have to take a certain style; we make them for all classes. So if you believe in paying a fair price for a good suit you must admit the custom-made way is the only way, especially when you have them made by The Bigger Tailoring Co.

You surely want to dress to the best advantage. Two-thirds of your life is spent in your clothes and you don't want to have your peace of mind disturbed by dissatisfaction with your raiment.

Now act on the above suggestions; have your clothes made where you can specify the exact style in which they are to be made and made to fit any curve and dimensions of your body, where you can see at any time the process of the making, and the quality of the inner trimming and learn what real clothes satisfaction is.

essary to run water trains to supply its engines. Most of the pumping stations along the route of this line are out of service and a train of tank cars is being run daily from Rushville to depleted tanks. The company has put 4 additional car repairers at work in the shops at Bucyrus to get more tank cars into service and 100 more men will be put to work next week. Other lines have begun to realize that they must take similar steps to be able to keep their trains in service. The operation of a water train daily is an expensive solution to the problem, but officials say that something must be done.

Some of the shops which have depended on rivers and other streams for their water supply have also found themselves in a serious plight, as the water is so low that the intake pipes are frequently left dry.

"About the only thing which can save the situation entirely is rain, and lots of it," said an official who has just returned from the East. "I see that the lines in this neighborhood have not suffered to any great extent from a water shortage, but I tell you it looks mighty bad for some of the lines east of here."—Dispatch.

John Mahin, was blown to pieces by dynamite. The same night the residence of J. S. Clarkson, in Dos Moines, was burned. Mr. Clarkson, editor of the State Register, espoused the cause of prohibition and received many threatening letters. Some years ago while living in Cedar Rapids, Ia., the ministers and the good people had a little contest with the saloon element. In the midst of the agitation one morning there was discovered on the step of the First M. E. Church enough dynamite to have blown several buildings to pieces. The only thing that saved the church was the fuse went out.

You ask when are we going to have state-wide prohibition? Listen what I say: When mere partisan thieves fall out honest men may get their dues. Indiana today has a larger per cent of her population and a larger per cent of her territory under prohibition than had Texas with 65 per cent; Alabama with 70; Oklahoma with 75; Oregon with 66; and North Carolina with 73, when these states went for or declared for prohibition. Just pray on, pray on, we are gaining ground. God is raising up men. While riding through Nebraska a few years ago, I fell in with a gentleman who was returning from a duck hunt up the country. This gentleman is quite well known throughout the country at the present time. In discussing men and issues I looked him straight in the eye and said, by the way we, over in our state, are growing a candidate for president. "Is that so," said he. "Who is he," I answered, "Joseph Folk, the present Governor of Missouri." He smiled one of those big, nice smiles for which he is justly famed, and said, "What makes you think so?" I replied, "because Gov. Folk is in contact with and feels the power of the great problem before the American people." "What's that?" asked he. "The saloon problem," said I, with all the emphasis I could summon. Here the conversation ended. I was talking to William Jennings Bryan.

Geo. R. Stuart tells the story of an old Tennessee farmer who was annoyed for years by a big stump in his garden. The plow would hang on its vicious roots, foul weeds would grow about it and it was a genuine nuisance. The farmer finally called the boys and they brought their spades and grub axes, the log-chain and a team of strong mules, and worked and sweat until they pulled it out. When the farmer saw the first crop growing where the old stump stood he said: "What a fool I have been that I did not grub that out long ago."

Mr. Stuart truly says: "Standing in the garden of American civilization is an old stump called the liquor traffic. Every plow of progress catches on its vicious roots. Nothing beautiful or useful ever grows near it. It is a genuine pest. But we are digging around that old stump and the day is not far distant when we shall throw around it the great chain whose links are made with the American ballot, and with the team of righteous civil power we will pull it out and we will plant in its place useful and helpful institutions. And we will be surprised that we delayed so long this glorious work."

The people will settle this problem.
